

AMU Invited Lecture Series in Creating, Enhancing and Transforming Territorial/Landscape Identity and Place Attachment –
The European Perspective

Lecture No. 1
Territorial Identities and Place Attachments.
Insights into the Humanistic Approach of Romanian Geography

Dr. Oana-Ramona ILOVAN
Babeş-Bolyai University Cluj-Napoca, Romania

The lecture presents the humanistic approach to territorial identities and place attachments in Romanian geography. First, it introduces the audience to the humanistic tradition in Romanian geography. Then, it discusses the international contributions on the topic of territorial identities and place attachments that impacted research in the field by Romanian geographers. In this context, it lists and discusses the Romanian contributions concerning territorial identities and place attachments in the field of geography both in Romania and beyond. Finally, this lecture presents a preliminary assessment of the progress on researching territorial identities and place attachments, focusing on the post-socialist period of this country.

30 November 2022, Wednesday, 10:00 (Warsaw Time)
on MS Teams platform